

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A scented bracelet or other novelty product. A bracelet may include a bracelet body, a sheet material covering the bracelet body, and a fragrance-containing microcapsule material adhered to the sheet material. The microcapsule material may be adhered to an inside or an outside surface of such bracelet adjacent to the arm of the wearer. The bracelet body may include an elastic material which permits the bracelet to be slapped onto one arm by a one-handed movement of the other arm. A scented tattoo may include a backing sheet, tattoo material on the backing sheet, and a fragrance-containing microcapsule material adhered to at least one of the tattoo material and the backing sheet. The bracelet or other product may have a body which includes a pair of bodies connected together, the microcapsule material being adhered to at least one of said bodies. One or both of the two bodies may include an elastic material which urges it automatically into a spiral shape, or may include an elastic material which stretches and contracts longitudinally. The disclosure also describes a process for manufacturing a scented product comprising the steps of: providing a product comprising a body, with a sheet material covering said body, and applying a fluid to said sheet material, said fluid containing microcapsules which contain a fragrance. The product may be a bracelet or another novelty product as described above. The fluid may be applied by spraying.
